VENICE GUIDE

Essential Information

What is there to say about Venice without repeating what everyone knows? A charming city conserved in its medieval form, with canals, narrow streets, peculiar bridges and lavish palaces. The romantic notions may well be true, but there’s way more to it. For instance, important events such as Biennale of Contemporary Arts or Venice Film Festival take place here. It is also a city where notable educational institutions have their seat.

Venture beyond the main tourist sites like St Mark’s Square, Murano Island or Rialto Bridge, visit the local markets, wander the small streets and eat in small unpretentious places – this is the best way to enjoy this very special place.

Time Zone
UTC/GMT +1 hour. Daylight saving time +1, March to October.

Money
The currency is the euro. 1 € = 100 cents.

The banks charge commission fees but the rates are generally acceptable. The expediency of exchange bureaus vary – there are some with good rates and good fees but they are quite an exception. Always ask about the fees beforehand. Not all of the banks will exchange money for non-customers.

ATMs are widespread and the best way how to change money. Many of them are 24/7.

Visa and MasterCard are widely accepted in hotels, supermarkets and better restaurants. You should not expect cards to be accepted everywhere, though – the smaller shops and food vendors might not have terminals or may restrict the use of cards to purchases of higher amounts.

Tax Refunds
The VAT is 20%. You are eligible for refund if you’re not an EU resident and spend at least €154,94 in one day. If you see ‘Euro Tax Free’ or ‘Global Blue’ sticker on the door, present your passport and ask for a Tax Free Shopping Check and receipt. If you want to shop in places without the sticker, ask for a special receipt stating the amount of VAT paid.

Then you need to present the purchased goods together with the papers at customs. After presenting the goods and receipts to customs, you need to send the newly stamped receipt to the shop (within 90 days) and they will be responsible for the refund.

Generally, it is always better and easier to purchase goods in shops participating in the Euro Tax Free refund system.

Prices
- Meal, inexpensive restaurant – €11
- Meal for 2, mid-range restaurant, three-course – €60
- Combo Meal at McDonald’s – €6.50
- Bottle of water at supermarket – €0.40
- Domestic beer (0.5 liter, draught) – €5
- Souvenir t-shirt – €10
- Gasoline (1 liter) – €1.54
- Hostels (average price/night) – €25
- 4* hotel (average price/night) – €150
- Car-hire (medium-sized car/day) – €35

Tipping
Tipping is not that customary in Italy. If you decide to tip, though, round up to the next euro or two. It is not usual to tip on vaporettos. Some Venice restaurants may already add a service charge of 10 – 15% to the bill – don’t tip in that case.
Electricity

The standard electricity supply in Italy is 220 volts – 50 Hz AC. The most common sockets (CEI 23-16/VII) have holes for three round pins. You will need to purchase a converter to change the voltage if coming from the US.

Languages

It should not come as a surprise that Italian is the most widely spoken language. This region has also a specific language called Venetian – more than two million people are fluent in it. Being such a touristic hot spot, the proficiency in English is very good at least with those employed in the tourist industry.

Mobile Phones

The standard mobile network (GSM/GPRS/3G) covers the whole country. You should check your cell phone for compatibility if coming from a non-GSM standard country. It is quite common to rent a mobile phone in Italy, you might also consider purchasing an Italian SIM card to reduce the roaming costs. The main service providers are Tim, Vodafone, Wind and 3.

The country code is +39, area code 41.

Internet

There is a municipal Wi-Fi network (www.veniceconnected.com) in Venice. The coverage is very good but the whole service is quite costly, 24 hours for €5 and one week for €20. There are several internet cafés in the city center but they are no cheaper.

Only some hotels, bars and cafés offer free Wi-Fi connection.

Internet Resources

- Official Website for Public Service in Venice (www.veniceconnected.com)
- Tourist Office (en.turismovenezia.it) – also offers a list of events

HOLIDAYS

- 1 January – New Year’s Day (Capodanno)
- 6 January – Epiphany
- 17 March – Anniversary of the Unification of Italy
- Easter Monday
- 25 April – Liberation Day
- 1 May – International Workers’ Day
- 2 June – Republic Day
- 15 August – Assumption Day
- 1 November – All Saints
- 4 November – Day of National Unity and the Armed Forces
- 8 December – Immaculate Conception
- 25 December – Christmas Day (Natale)
- 26 December – St. Stephen’s Day

During these days, banks and offices close. The majority of shops close too, expect only those in touristic areas which stay open for a shortened period of time.

Opening Hours

Typical opening hours may seem unusual. General business hours are 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. with a lunch break from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The majority of shops close on Sunday, some don’t even open on Monday morning and grocery stores close on Wednesdays after noon.

Business hours for banks are 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. Only some open on Saturdays. Post offices have the same opening hours except they don’t open again in the afternoon.

Sites are usually open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. but the times vary a lot – it is always safer to check the times individually.
Public Transportation

Vaporettos – run by the Actv company (www.actv.it) it is the most convenient way to travel around the city. The schedules are not very strictly followed and the costs are quite high, but there’s no better service. Consider purchasing a Travelcard as it cuts costs considerably. A single ticket, valid for one hour, costs €7 or €4 for particular short routes. The Travelcards are as follows: €18 for 12 hours, €20 for 24 hours, €30 for two days and €50 per week.

Taxis

Water taxis are the most expensive means of transport in the city. The fare starts at €13 and each minute of travel will cost you €1.80 – expect the price to soar very quickly. If there’s up to five travellers in the taxi, the fare remains unchanged. However, every extra person pays the €10 extra fee. It works the same with the bags – €5 for every extra piece of luggage. There are also surcharges for Sundays, holidays and nights.

Despite being expensive, water taxis are quick and comfortable. Get a taxi from the designated rank or let your hotel arrange one for you. One boat can take up to 10 people.

Regional Transportation

Buses – Atvo operates buses connecting Venice with the airports and other seemingly random lines.

Trains – the train tickets can be purchased online at competitive prices. It is always better to book or buy your ticket in advance.

Boats – Allilaguna operates boat lines between Venice, airports and some other frequented spots.

- Atvo (www.atvo.it)
- Trenitalia (www.trenitalia.com)
- Allilaguna (www.allilaguna.it)

Driving

It is not possible to drive around Venice. If coming by car, you will have to find parking in Mestre or Troncetto suburbia. The parking lots are limited so the prices are quite high.

Generally, driving is a pleasure in Italy. The drivers may be a bit aggressive and chaotic, but it is all made up for by the good system of roads, highways and the scenic landscapes. The highways are tolled – marked by a sign with A (autostrada). Don’t forget to keep the ticket received upon entering the paid area; you will need to present it when exiting.

- Maximum speed on highways – 130 km/h
- Maximum speed on open roads – 90 km/h
- Maximum speed in the built area – 50 km/h
- Blood alcohol limit – .05 bac (0,5 pro mille)

Wearing a seat belt is compulsory for everyone in the car. Infants and children under 12 years need to sit in a child safety seat. Children under 12 also aren’t allowed to travel in the front seat. Using the cellphone while driving is forbidden in Italy.

Walkability

Venice is a prime example of walkable city – and walkable only. You can take water buses (vaporettos) but apart from that, your feet are your only option. It is a pleasant option, though. The historical core is compact and the walkways wide. Don’t forget to get a map; the streets sometime resemble a maze.

Unfortunately, the same cannot be said about accessibility. The pavements often get crowded and the overall layout isn’t very suitable for wheelchairs. The situation is changing for the better, but only very slowly.
You will be surprised if expecting pasta and pizza. Venetian cuisine is way more than that.

- Typical is the use of polenta as a side-dish and an abundance of seafood.
- Sarde in saor - fried sardines with onions and nuts
- Rixoto de gô – rice with fish
- Polenta e schie – fried shrimps with polenta
- Fondi di carciofo – artichoke dish
- Venetian sandwich – white bread, mayonnaise, tomatoes, ham or any other filling.

The most popular Venetian drink is undoubtedly sparkling wine (prosecco). It is often served as Spritz, with Aperol and soda. Wine-lovers should not leave unnoticed other popular Venetian wines, white, light-bodied Pinot Grigio and Bianco di Custoza.

Legal Age
The legal drinking age is 16.

Shopping
Venice is known as one of the capitals of fashion and design – buying some designer clothes or goods here is totally in place. Otherwise, there’s a large selection of exquisite silk, velvet and other fabrics. Stop in Murano for impressive traditional glassware. Other popular souvenirs include miniature masks, gondolier straw hats and marble paper.

DOS AND DO NOTS
- DO allow enough time for aimless wandering – this way you will see the most of Venice.
- DO visit many churches, not only those mentioned in tourist guides – every single one is a gem.
- DO NOT eat your picnic at the main sights – it is forbidden and can incur a fine.
- DO NOT visit Venice during Carnival if you’re not ready for the crowds – the whole city goes crazy.
- DO NOT order cappuccino after lunch – the Italians consider it as a meal in itself and therefore never drink it after having eaten.
- DO NOT expect gondola to be a typical means of travel – it is a very touristy and pricey way to get around.

Safety
Generally, Venice is a safe city and violent crime is unlikely. Unfortunately, pickpockets are aplenty, especially in the touristiest areas and in crowds. You should always take the general precautions: keep an eye on your belongings, don’t flash expensive possessions and avoid badly lit and abandoned areas at night. There’s one more reason for avoiding dark places: the canals may not be well fenced.

The typical tourist scams are uncommon in Venice but can happen. Just apply your common sense and you’ll be safe.

Stay away from counterfeit designer goods – you can be fined for purchasing fake stuff in Venice.

In summer, there are many mosquitos – don’t forget to take repellent with you. If you are planning on visiting Venice during autumn, especially during November, be aware of the infamous phenomenon called acqua alta – the tides are so high that they flood the streets for several hours. Despite being announced by sirens and bell chimes, it is not an uncommon occurrence and you don’t need to worry. Just bring along a pair of good shoes.

The tap water is safe to drink. There are also numerous water fountains around the city - unless marked as non-potable water, it is safe to drink from them.
